

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE
DISTRICT OF VERMONT

THE VERMONT COUNTRY STORE, INC.
and GRAVEL AND SHEA, Plaintiffs,

v.

MICHAEL E. NELSON and ALAN GOLDMAN, Defendants

Docket No. 1:05-cv-63

DECLARATION OF ALAN GOLDMAN

Alan Goldman declares, under penalty of perjury in accordance with 28 U.S.C. §§ 1746, that the following is true and correct:

1. I did register the trade name "Montpelier Vermont Country Store The" with the Vermont Secretary of State. The Vermont Secretary of State approved my registration of that trade name. It was done on January 28, 2004, which is more than a year ago. [The Registration is Attachment A"]

2. At no time have I , or The Montpelier Vermont Country Store sold, offered for sale, advertised for sale, advertised or transported any goods in commerce under or using the trade name "The Montpelier Vermont Country Store".

3. At no time have I , or The Montpelier Vermont Country Store sold, offered for sale, or transported any services in commerce under or using the trade name The Montpelier Vermont Country Store.

4. My contemplated business for use of the trade name The Montpelier Vermont Country Store was an idea but it never evolved to the stage of implementation. "The Montpelier Vermont Country Store" does not now have and never did have any inventory, catalogue, goods, supplier of goods or arrangement with any supplier of goods.

5. “The Montpelier Vermont Country Store” does not now have and never did have a bricks and mortar location.

6. “The Montpelier Vermont Country Store” does not now have and never has had any website on the Internet.

7. The Plaintiffs base their complaint, in part, upon the use of the Uniform Resource Locator (“URL”) www.montpeliercountrystore.com. That website is not now and never has been owned or controlled by me or by “The Montpelier Vermont Country Store.”

8. The URL of that website about which Plaintiffs complain, www.montpeliercountrystore.com, differs materially from the “The Montpelier Vermont Country Store” trade name I registered with the Vermont Secretary of State.

9. The URL www.montpeliercountrystore.com about which the Plaintiffs complain is owned by Michael E. Nelson and/or by his company, BiCoastal Consulting. The site expressly states “copyright Mike Nelson.” [See Attachment B]. I did not authorize any use of my trade name “The Montpelier Vermont Country Store” on that website (or any where else) to advertise for sale or solicit any orders for goods or services.. There were no listings on that website of any specific goods being available for sale from “The Montpelier Vermont Country Store”. “The Montpelier Vermont Country Store” has never accepted, received or filled any order for goods which may have been directed to that website.

10. There is an organization in Vermont named “Vermont Alliance of Independent Country Stores.” My review of this organization’s website, at www.vaics.org/, [Attached as Exhibit C] shows that the following eighteen Vermont stores use the phrase “country store” as part of their names: Bridgewater Corners Country Store, East Charleston Country Store, Jericho Center Country Store, Jerusalem Corners Country Store, Jonesville Country Store, Mendon Country Store, Morgan Country Store; North Concord Country Store, North Montpelier/Riverbend Country Store, Ripton Country Store, Roxbury Country Store, Shaftsbury Country Store, South Woodstock Country Store, Taftsville Country Store, Underhill Country Store, Wardsboro Country Store, West Arlington Wayside Country Store and Clutes Country Store. The names of all but one of these eighteen "country stores" also includes the name of the municipality in which the store is located.

11. It is my understanding that Vrest Orten was the founder of the Plaintiff, The Vermont Country Store, Inc. Mr. Orten authored a book entitled "The Story Of The Vermont Country Store" which was published by Academy Books of Rutland, Vermont in 1983. The following text appears at page 8 of that book [See "Attachment D"]:

There's another phase of history which is a kind of duty. The early settlers who landed at Massachusetts Bay Colony began creating what we would call today, institutions. One major institution still with us is the town meeting, supposedly the essence of democracy. Another institution of which there are few examples left is the New England village with a few houses built around a common or village green. And of course there is the country store.

We feel that this early American institution which we have restored here in southern Vermont is worthy of preservation. This nation today is full of stores in the country but few are authentic examples of the genuine country store in rural America. The national recognition we have received both in the press and letters from the public impose upon us a duty to continue to keep alive this keystone of American culture.

12. Independent country stores in Vermont are the subject of a June 7, 2003 proclamation by the Governor of Vermont. [Attachment E]. The proclamation recognizes that the independent country store is, inter alia, a fundamental component of Vermont's commerce, history and landscape, integral to Vermont's individuality, represents the core values and ethics of Vermonters, is central to a mixed innovative and dynamic economic and community climate and contributes to a critical understanding and respect for Vermont's heritage. It also proclaims September 2003 as "Independent Country Store Month in Vermont";

13. I conducted research by utilizing the Trademark Electronic Search System ("TESS") database of trademark applications maintained by the United States Patent and Trademark Office records located at www.uspto.gov.. That search revealed 139 applications for trademarks which include the term COUNTRY STORE.[“Attachment F”]

14. Record 79 out of 139 is the application of the Plaintiff for registration Number 1591451 for the alleged mark VERMONT COUNTRY STORE.[“Attachment G”]. In that registration, plaintiff VCS was required to “disclaim” its exclusive right to use the term COUNTRY STORE. That application also contains a “distinctiveness limitation” “AS TO THE WORD VERMONT.”

15. Record 44 out of 139 is the application of the Plaintiff for registration Number 2298586 for the word mark THE VERMONT COUNTRY STORE APOTHECARY.” [“Attachment H”] The application also contains a “distinctiveness limitation” “AS TO ‘THE VERMONT COUNTRY STORE.’”

16. I am not now nor have I never been in any contractual or other business association with Michael E. Nelson relating to the selling of goods and/or services or the advertisement of goods and services for sale.

17. If Michael E. Nelson did any of the acts that VCS’s complaint alleges he did, they were not done or authorized by me or by “The Montpelier Vermont Country Store.”

18. The reason the “The Montpelier Vermont Country Store” trade name I registered with the Vermont Secretary of State used the words “Montpelier Vermont” was to designate the location of my intended store. I felt that the “Vermont” component was advisable to differentiate my intended store location from the Montpeliers in a number of other states.

Dated this 25th day March, 2005 at Montpelier, Vermont.

Chapter 1

The Feeling

Meaning of History

Many young people today have reservations about the necessity of knowing history. They don't realize its importance and the fact that without history we could never understand the present or prepare for the future. To illustrate the remarkable necessity for knowing history the following story was told me many years ago by Dr. Frank Monagham, professor of History at Yale.

One day the police in New York City picked up a man lying on the sidewalk. Since they couldn't discover any visible injuries and since he was unconscious they rushed him to Bellevue Hospital. Interrogated by a team of medical doctors, they found that the man didn't know who he was, where he had come from, what he was doing in New York or where he was going.

The doctors finally diagnosed the problem as amnesia.

I call it a loss of history.

There's another phase of history which is a kind of duty. The early settlers who landed at Massachusetts Bay Colony began creating what we would call today, institutions. One major institution still with us is the town meeting, supposedly the essence of democracy. Another institution of which there are few examples left is the New England village with a few houses built around a common or village green. And of course there is the country store.

We feel that this early American institution which we have restored here in southern Vermont is worthy of preservation. This nation today is full of stores in the country but few are authentic examples of the genuine country store in rural America. The national recognition we have received both in the press and letters from the public impose upon us a duty to continue to keep alive this keystone of American culture.

STATE OF VERMONT
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT
A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, the independent country store has been a fundamental component of the commerce, history and landscape of Vermont since its earliest days; and

WHEREAS, the independent country store is integral to Vermont's individuality as reflected in its towns, villages, and cities; and

WHEREAS, the independent country store is a family enterprise that represents the core values and ethics of Vermonters; and

WHEREAS, the independent country store is a year-round center for goods, news, services, information, and help in times of need; and

WHEREAS, the independent country store is a welcome center that contributes to the decision to visit Vermont and makes such visits rewarding; and

WHEREAS, the independent country store is central to a mixed, innovative, and dynamic economic and community climate; and

WHEREAS, the strong and healthy survival of independent country stores is essential to families, their community, their security and their well-being; and

WHEREAS, the independent country store continues to contribute to a critical understanding and respect for Vermont's heritage.

NOW THEREFORE, I, James H. Douglas, Governor, do hereby proclaim September 2003, as in Vermont.

INDEPENDENT COUNTRY STORE MONTH

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Vermont this 3rd day of June, A.D. 2003.

James H. Douglas
